

Do you have questions about teaching at Penn State?

We have answers!

“The Schreyer Institute for Teaching Excellence is a valuable resource to any faculty member as there is always something new to learn in teaching.”

—Teaching Professor, Ross and Carol Nese College of Nursing

Our interactions with you are voluntary, confidential, and free. Our work with you is guided by the principles of faculty autonomy and academic freedom.

We are faculty

We are Penn State faculty members from different disciplines with extensive teaching experience across modalities. We have varied expertise and specialties. We make it easier for you to use evidence-based and research-supported teaching.

- We listen, support, coach, and mentor.
- We work with you on course and assessment design.
- We will visit your course to observe or talk with students.
- We offer teaching workshops, webinars, and non-credit courses.
- We serve as a resource and networking hub.
- We help you interpret or respond to student feedback.

We are available

Meet with us in person at University Park, Zoom or Teams, by email or phone, whichever is most convenient for you.

Contact us

 301 Rider Building, 227 W. Beaver Ave.
State College, PA 16801

 814-863-2599

 site@psu.edu

 Schreyer Institute for Teaching Excellence website

Consultant and staff directory webpage

Find your consultant webpage

Canvas resource for new faculty

Follow us

 LinkedIn

 Instagram